THREE KILLED IN AUTO-TRAIN CRASH

BOOST IN OHIO GASOLINE TAX BEGINS TODAY

Marion Stations Add Cent to Price as New Law Becomes Effective

IS BIG SURPRISE

Measure Placed in Operation Earlier Than Anticipated by Motorists of State

Marion motorists awoke today to [illegible] increased gasoline tax law [illegible] boosts the tax in Ohio from [illegible] four cents in Ohio effective [illegible]. It was a big surprise to the auto[illegible] because of the suddenness [illegible]. They knew it was coming [illegible] not so soon.

[illegible] stations were all collecting [illegible] extra cent this morning.

[illegible] Cooper signed the bill late yesterday afternoon and it became [illegible] effective at midnight. All tax [illegible] it was explained become [illegible] the midnight after the governor [illegible] them.

[illegible] will collect approximately $5,000,000 from the gasoline [illegible] each year it has been estimated.

Getting To Be Regular

[illegible] the third time in [illegible] many [illegible] of the legislature that an increased gas tax measure was levied [illegible] the motorists of the Buckeye [illegible].

In 1925 the Ohio General Assembly enacted a two cent gas tax. In [illegible] the administration added a penny [illegible] this tax and it became three [illegible]. This year the tax was boosted another cent so that the gas tax now amounts to four cents on every gallon of gasoline bought.

Estimated Revenue

The total revenue from the tax will [illegible] to some $34,000,000 a year. [illegible] this Ohio motorists pay [illegible] 1,000,000 a year for license tags and several other millions in property tax on their automobiles.

Of the $8,500,000 to be extracted by the additional one-cent tax 60 per [illegible] will go to the state 20 percent to the townships 10 percent is to be divided equally among the counties and 10 percent goes to the municipalities.

All of it is to be used for road construction and improvement work.

Nearly every gasoline company in the state is making the motorists pay the additional one cent. One large company however announced that no [illegible] from yesterday's price would be made and that it would pay the additional tax out of its own pocket.

Solid Rural Backing

One of the features of the Sullivan-Bostwick bill the name for the increased gas tax measure in the legislative [illegible] hall was the township road [illegible]. Because of the clause [illegible] 20 per cent to be divided [illegible] the townships the rural members of the house solidly backed the [illegible].

Four years ago when the first tax was levied the motorists filled their tanks and laid away a little sup-

Old Wesley M. E. Church, First Religious Edifice Built In West Marion, To Be Torn Down Soon

Ground To Be Cleared To Provide Site for Filling Station

THE old Wesley Methodist Episcopal church on West Center st is to be torn down. The building the first religious edifice built in the city's West Side will be razed to make way for a new gasoline filling station to be erected on the site by the Shell Petroleum Co.

For 23 years the building was the place of worship for the congregation of the Wesley church. Since its abandonment in 1923 it has done part time service as a salesroom for second hand automobiles. For the greater part of the time it has been vacant.

When the congregation built its new edifice on Olney av the old property was sold to James L. Messenger county treasurer. Transfer of the property by Messenger to the Shell Petroleum Co was completed this week. The deal was handled by the A. W. Granger head of the Granger realty firm.

Local officials of the oil company are not certain when work will be started to tear down the building.

Built In 1900

Built in 1900 and dedicated in 1901 the church served the Wesley congregation until July [illegible] 1923 when the new building on Olney av was dedicated. Organization of the church congregation is directly traceable to a mission on Davids st. The mission later moved into a downstairs room in a building on West Center st now occupied by the Lincoln hotel where the congregation organized and held meetings for several years. The dedicatory sermon was preached by the Rev J W Donnan then the pastor.

According to church records the congregation organized in 1897 during a revival service being conducted in the present Lincoln hotel building by Rev E. [illegible] Dunham. The charter members of the congregation were Daniel Lucapher, Mr and Mrs. L. V. Lucapher Mr and Mrs O. A. Farr Mrs. O. J. Elliott [illegible] Mrs. Schrole Mr and Mrs. James Osborn Robert Branson Mr and Mrs. Charles Winfield and their two children Edith and Walter. Several of the original members are still active in affairs of the church.

HOUSE, SENATE DIFFER ON AID FOR FARMERS

Lower Body Predicts Enactment of Its Relief Measure Within Week

MAY ADJOURN TODAY

Senate Committee Would Add Debenture Plan to Its Bill

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON April 18—A farm relief bill far exceeding the recommendations of President Hoover and including the so called export bounty plan was introduced in the senate this afternoon by Senator McNary Republican of Oregon at the instance of western farm leaders. It would authorize the proposed federal farm board to pay the farmers of America a bounty on exported surpluses in times of emergency equal to half the tariff on any particular crop. The provision has never received the approval of President Hoover.

* * *

WASHINGTON April 18—The eight year old farm problem which prompted President Hoover to summon congress in special session [illegible] occupied the spotlight today as the house began consideration of its new relief bill while the senate agriculture committee met to report a different measure.

In the house administration leaders were predicting enactment within a week of the $500,000,000 relief bill which is said to have the president's approval. The measure would establish a federal farm board encourage cooperative marketing and pledge government funds to all cooperatives and farmer organizations in marketing surplus crops.

Would Add Bounty Plan

The senate committee apparently favors adding an optional export bounty plan commonly known as the debenture plan to its draft of farm relief. The senate bill would create a farm board similarly to the house measure but it would provide only $325,000,000 for financial relief. The debenture plan under which tariff revenues would be used to pay farmers a bounty on exported surplus crops in times of emergency has had a cold reception at the White House.

The bounty proposal may prove a stumbling block to the administration

Anti-Saloon Group's Publication Links Wets and Equal Representation Plans

COLUMBUS April 18—The Ohio Anti-Saloon League sworn enemy of Senator George H. Bender in an editorial and news article in the American Issue the official publication of that organization today razzed the state senator and his equal representation referendum.

The Cleveland solon has been the subject of many attacks from the league and this new call to arms of the dry league may benefit Bender instead of hindering him as it will give him not only the wet vote but also the liberal vote in the Buckeye state which consists of a large group of persons who vote against Anti-Saloon league measures.

On the other hand it puts the dry vote and the rural districts solidly against him.

Campbell Sulks in Cell As Detectives Seek To Link Him With Murder

Murderer of Omaha Ax-Victim in 1925 Never Apprehended, Confessed Torch-Slayer Visited by Young Wife Who Pledges Loyalty to Husband

ELIZABETH N. J. April 18—Henry Colin Campbell silver haired torch slayer bogus doctor and love philanderer sulked in his cell in Union county jail today defiantly awaiting the coming of Omaha detectives who seek to link him with the brutal ax murder of Miss Ada Swanson in 1925.

Miss Swanson a maid in the household of Joseph Sykes secretary of the Union Pacific railroad in Omaha was found hacked to death in May four years ago. The murderer was never apprehended.

Campbell who has confessed to making a gruesome funeral pyre of the body of Miss Mildred Mowry after shooting her to death lapsed into sullen silence when questioned concerning the Swanson slaying. He admitted having been in Omaha however but insisted his last visit there took place in 1912.

Opposed to this were dispatches from the Nebraska city stating Campbell had in fact been discharged by the Union Pacific there in 1914 but had made several visits there since that time.

Campbell was visited by his wife Mrs Rosalea Campbell in his cell yesterday. Although the confessed slayer maintained a calm demeanor his young wife became greatly agitated clinging to him and sobbing "I love you and will stick by you no matter what you have done."

Authorities are awaiting the results of police investigations in other cities throughout the country as the result of Campbell's confession that he had married five other women but was unaware of the present whereabouts of any of the five.

KIWANIANS HOSTS AT DINNER PARTY

90 Enjoy Program of Entertainment at Marion Club

One of the most enjoyable parties in the history of the local Kiwanis club in the estimation of the members present was given for the Kiwanians and their wives in the main dining room of the Marion club last night

About 90 persons attended the party which was limited to Kiwanians and families Stunts of various kinds all by local people were supplied to entertain the group after a three course dinner had been served

Using their saxophone accordion combination in an effective program Mr and Mrs R J Tidwell of Marion provided music during the dinner

During the dinner telegrams and long distance telephone calls not genuine but carrying a humorous message were received by members One member was somewhat embarrassed when a burlesque policeman extracted a whisky bottle partly filled from his pocket J C Dickson performed some of his magical feats

R P Fletcher gave the treasurer's report of the two-day benefit show recently given by the club at the Grand theater and included in it several entertaining variations from the true report Fay Vaughan made his second appearance as a Venus last night and made a hit with his interpretation of a classic dance

From fun and stunts the club then turned to entertainment of a more serious nature John F Lacey local tenor gave a group of numbers accompanied by Mrs Lacey The Colonial quartet composed of Mrs Eugene Moore Mrs Karl Schell Miss Dora Jacob and Mr H O Bresler gave a program of music

The program was in charge of the stunt committee of which A V Van Alta was chairman Other members of the committee are A M Kette J H Vaughan L C Dickson L A Van Kev Garceau F L Alexander

WANTS GOVERNMENT TO MAKE LOSSES GOOD

Bloom Declares Many Widows and Orphans Bought Land Bank Stock

WASHINGTON Apr 18—Declaring that "someone blundered" Rep Sol Bloom Democrat of New York announced today that he was considering the introduction of legislation requiring the federal government to make good the losses of stockholders of federal joint stock land banks

Referring to failures in Milwaukee Kansas City and Cincinnati Bloom asserted that stock was sold to widows and orphans upon the indorsement of the federal government and under representations that the government was behind these banks

"Now the stockholders have not only lost their investment but they are being called upon to pay double liability on their stock" he said

"People were misled into buying stock upon written statements bearing the indorsement of the government and in the belief that the government guaranteed the stock

"I have letters from many widows who have lost heavily as a result I believe the government is morally liable to make good their losses"

Bloom asserted that it appeared as if the federal farm board was responsible for the situation

GOITRE

A new treatment for goitre has been developed by the W T B Laboratories 1248 Sanborn Bldg Battle Creek Michigan which many believe will prove to be the long sought specific for this unsightly and dangerous disease Many of the largest and most hideous goitres begin to recede almost in a day They gradually get smaller and in many cases are entirely gone in a few weeks It is equally efficient in cases of toxic and so-called inside goitre The treatment is harmless and anyone can use it with perfect safety at home

A 48-page illustrated booklet on the Causes Dangers and Non-Surgical Treatment of Goitre issued by the Laboratories fully explains the new treatment and will be mailed free to any interested sufferer —Adv

"KONJOLA FIRST MEDICINE THAT BENEFITED ME"

Grateful Lady Pays Tribute To Master Medicine Ended Severe Complication

MRS. MARY S. WHITACRE

"Konjola is the first medicine that benefited me, and I fully realize that it is indeed, the master medicine of them all," said Mrs. Mary S. Whitacre, Box 84, Newton, near Cincinnati.

"My stomach was disordered! I failed to relish any food, and lost all energy and strength. My liver became torpid and sluggish, bringing on dizzy spells. Then rheumatism developed in my joints and muscles.

"Steadily I became worse and only when something had to be done; did I decide to try Konjola. Konjola went right to work. My stomach was cleaned and strengthened. My appetite and digestion were restored. Soon my liver resumed it's normal function and then the rheumatic pains were eliminated. I wish to say that I feel like an entirely different persons. Do not wonder that I praise Konjola?"

Konjola is different than any other known remedy in this section. It contains twenty-two juices extracted from natural plants which invigorate the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels to a more healthy action. The effect of this Konjola on the entire system brings amazing relief in cases of suffering that has been going on for years. At the same time many weak and rundown systems have been restored to a new state of health through this compound." Such a vast number of men and women in this city have told of their experience with this new medical product, until now, Konjola is the most highly indorsed medicine that is known in this section.

Konjola is sold in Marion at Stump & Sams Pharmacy and by all the best druggists throughout this section.—

SOUTHERN FLOODS GIVE FISHERMEN PARADISE

BAINBRIDGE, Ga.—The receding flood waters from the overflow of rivers in this section of the last month have turned lagoons in this county into veritable paradises for fishermen.

So great is the number of fish left stranded in the lagoons at the power dam here that the state game department has been asked to gather the fish and dispose of them.

In the collection of native fish there are trout and bream and millions can be had for the fishing, according to H. R. Bell, county game warden.

One rule held in high estimation by some is to go to the legislature as a member and prevent as many things as you can.

PENNSY INSTALLING CEMENT CROSSING

Final Step in Local Railroad's Track Improvements on West Center st.

Work was started yesterday on laying a cement block crossing at the Pennsylvania railroad tracks on West Center st. When this new crossing is completed, which is expected to be within the next few days, it will be one of the smoothest in the city. Pennsylvania officials here have been trying to get work started for the last two or three months, but due to pressing need of repair work on other sections of the road were unable to get the crossing job.

A regular section gang is doing the work, dividing its time between the crossing project and other track repairing in this section. Work yesterday and today was spent mostly with leveling off the track and getting ready to lay in the heavy cement blocks.

A small section of the rail on the crossing is being replaced by new rail. This as well as most of the levelling off work, was completed yesterday afternoon.

When this work is completed West Center st. will have smooth and substantial crossings at all railroads. The Pennsylvania was the last that had to be improved. The Hocking Valley installed a cement block crossing the time West Center st. was paved.

HAS THREE MONTHS TO RATIFY TREATY

Otherwise France Must Meet $400,000 000 War Supplies Debt

WASHINGTON April 18—France has only three months to ratify the Mellon Berenger debt pact or face the necessity of meeting the $400 000 ... war supplies obligation due Aug 1 in a lump sum payment.

In official circles today the impression prevailed that the debt pact would be approved by the French parliament. Under its terms the $400 000 000 obligation is funded along with the remainder of the $4 ... 000 debt.

Should the parliament fail to ratify ... the supplies debt automatically would mature and France would have some difficulty in avoiding payment inasmuch as the obligation was incurred for railroad equipment and other supplies actually turned over to that government after the war. These supplies incidentally were valued at well over a billion dollars

HOUSE AND SENATE DIFFER ON RELIEF

Lower Body Predicts Enactment of Its Aid Measure Within Week

tion. Thus far Mr Hoover has remained silent about it while farm organizations particularly the national grange have demanded it as the one real form of agricultural relief. If the senate should approve it there may be quite a dispute between the two branches of congress since Mr Hoover can and will control the house and therefore could prevent its acceptance in the lower branch of congress.

May Adjourn Today

The senate met today chiefly for the introduction of bills and resolutions with administration leaders hoping that the farm bill would be formally introduced. It was the plan of leaders to adjourn until Monday when debate would be started on the farm bill.

In the house backers of the Hoover plan were confident that they could beat off attempts to substitute either the debenture plan or the old McNary Haugen bill with its equalization fee.

Three Day Debate

Representative Haugen Republican of Iowa, chairman of the house agricultural committee announced that a point of order would be raised against the debenture plan as a substitute on the ground that it is not germane to the bill under consideration. This point of order was sustained in former farm relief fights he said.

It was admitted however that the equalization fee plan would have to be considered if it is proposed.

Under the plan of house leaders there will be general debate for three days reading of the bill for amendment on Monday and probable passage by Tuesday or Wednesday. Any great demand of members for time however will result in continuation of the general debate.

It is a delight to live on a farm and not have any of its work or worry. Why don't more farmers take boarders?

BREWER SAYS RAID, SEIZURE MISTAKE

Asserts 2,800 Bottles Taken Contained Malt Made Under Federal Permit

HUNTINGTON W Va April 18—A grave error on the part of federal and state prohibition agents was made when they seized 2,800 bottles of alleged beer in a warehouse here according to Chris Griggs district manager of Val Blatz Brewing Co Milwaukee who had today appeared before Magistrate Stuart and furnished bond for future appearance on a charge of violation of the prohibition laws.

The product seized was said to contain two-per cent alcohol but Griggs asserted it to be Malt Vine produced under federal permit number 1115 575. The malt was being held in a warehouse pending application for its sale under West Virginia's bone dry law. Griggs said stating further that none of it had been distributed.

Mere possession of beverage containing more than ½ of one per cent is a liquor law violation state officials said. They indicated a complete investigation will be made before the charge is pushed.

Guinan Draws First Blood in Battle with New York Commissioner

I challenge him to meet me in open debate she cried. You may rest assured I'm not going to let him blacken the names and reputations of the girls who work for me as he tried recently to do in his address before the Council of the Federation of Churches.

Meanwhile Broadway's vaunted merry making became a bit subdued following advices from Washington that James W Doran had determined to send 15 more prohibition agents to clean up 32 000 speakeasies alleged to be in operation in the metropolis.

BAPTISTS LEAD IN MEMBERSHIP GAINS

Christian Herald's Survey Shows Increase of 1,115,000 in 1928

All others showed gains ranging from 500 reported by the 10 bodies of the Oriental Catholic church up to more than 160 000 gained by the Roman Catholic church.

Sees Church Victory

This high conquest comes out of a period of mixed hope and fear Dr H K Carroll of the publication said. "Just after the World War churches were uncomfortably near the edge of actual defeat.

A few years ago a few of the most hopeful ones reported net losses. Unusual losses assailed them losses by excessive pruning by wandering sheep by unresponsible members.

Last year the churches were encouraged by a clear gain of more than 300 000. Now this increase has nearly been doubled.

LEAGUE PAPER RAPS BENDER REFERENDUM

Anti Saloon Group's Publication Links Wets and Equal Representation Plans

sue observed the wets would be delighted if all the state legislators came from the cities and none from rural Ohio.

An article captioned Bender's Referendum, declared:

Senator Bender is again at his old job for petitioning voters of Ohio for a referendum on the question of cutting down the rural representation in the state general assembly and increasing the representation from the cities. He wants more space in the chambers of the senate and house for representatives from Cleveland and Cincinnati to battle with each other.

Cites Publicity Angle

Above all Bender wants another opportunity to collect money for another referendum. He likes the job so well that after the referendum on the Marshall bill two years ago he kept headquarters open appealing for funds the paper stated.

Above all the article continued Bender is in the referendum game because it means publicity, and publicity to Bender is like milk to a puppy.

The American Issue scoffs at the reports of the 1931 referendum on repeal of the Crabbe act the state prohibition law in Ohio and suggested the burden is on the wets. Senator Bender might loan his referendum organization of which he boasts much to the wets although it will need a complete overhauling and even then it probably will be worthless.

In making that statement the American Issue links the wet referendum with the equal representation referendum and indirectly admits that passage of the Bender referendum would help the chances for repeal of the state dry law.

We take it that the proffer of soviet Russia to grant divorces to foreigners at a flat price of fifteen cents is a shrewd bolshevik plan to attract travel from the United States.

A Paris cable says an ape woman is en-route from Africa to this country, where she will be exhibited to "scientists." Maybe so, but it's never safe to figure on what our immigration authorities may decide to do about admitting visitors.

One might view Police Commissioner Whalen's plan to close New York's night clubs at 3 a. m., with more respect, were it not for memories of the fates of many curfew forerunners along the same line.

On complaint of a man who had loaned her $900 under the impression that she was to marry him, a Chicago woman was arrested and not only found to be married, but also in correspondence with 700 other poor fish on matrimony bent. The late Mr. Barnum didn't overstate the case.

The nomination of Mr. Dawes as ambassador to Great Britain was confirmed without a murmur; which goes to show that the senate doesn't hold it up against him for still holding that he was right.

Speaker Longworth, a Washington wire tells us, urged members of the lower house of congress to make the present session a short one. We're with you, Nicholas, but our observations in the past are not such as to justify hope that your urging in this regard will bear any fruit worth mentioning.

Six Chicago candy jobbers draw jail sentences and ten more are fined for racketeering. There may yet be ground for hope that the time may come again when a retail business may be conducted in comparative peace and comfort in the Windy City.

There are but few of us who will not be glad to read the story of his life which former Governor Al. Smith is to write for the Saturday Evening Post, provided, of course, that it does not bring about a recurrence of the brown derby.

Were the thing left to our decision, it's our present opinion that the printing of the picture of the woman in that New York sidewalk affray, which resulted in the death of a Cleveland manufacturer, removed it from what some of the newspaper friends would call the realm of romance.

President Hindenburg has resumed his official duties and King George is so greatly improved that he is making short motor trips about Bognor. It may be well to keep these two cases in mind, as they go to show that a multiplicity of physicians at a sick bed doesn't necessarily lead to a fatality.

Another Local Industry.

We were not greatly impressed by the rumored possibility that the locally-developed airplane might be manufactured in some city other than Marion. In the face of the rumor, we dwelt at some length, a day or two ago, on how much the production of the plane would mean to this city, for we figured that, while those financing the promised enterprise have done much to aid in making the industrial development of the city what it is, on the other hand they realized that Marion has done much for them in the successful development of their enterprises; that they appreciated that this city offers many advantages which prove profitable to industry.

But despite all this, it is good to have the assurance that there is no question about the plant for the manufacturing of the plane being located here. It is good to know, also, that the city council appreciates what such an industry will mean to the city and is prepared to do all within its power to develop the local airport up to the needs of a city in which such a plant is located.

While we have criticized council, at times, both for acts of commission and omission, though chiefly the latter, we have never been inclined to criticize it for failure to act beyond its abilities in a financial way; in which respect we are different from some of the out-of-town critics of council who are especially interested in aviation, who are not able to look upon anything save from their own selfish viewpoints and use terms and expressions wholly uncalled-for and unjustified.

As it is, the situation is one which is being worked out smoothly, and it should bring good return to Marion and her people generally, as well as to those who may give their time and means to the further development and production of the new plane, which is held by experts to be an exceptionally good one.

Not a Lawless People.

This newspaper is utterly out of sympathy with the contention of Secretary of War James W. Good, uttered before the Daughters of the American Revolution assembled in convention in Washington this week, that Americans are the most lawless of all people, and we question if any considerable element of the press of the country will be found to be in accord with it.

"This disrespect of law," began the secretary in leading up to his utterance, "did not have its beginning with the adoption of any amendment to the constitution. Before the latest of them had been brought forth and ratified, we had become the most lawless people upon the face of the earth. This growing disrespect on the part of the American people, which we all recognize, will, if permitted to grow and develop, in the end work our destruction."

Such a statement by any man prominent in public life, we feel, can not be held other than unfortunate, and this is especially true when made by one high in the official life of the nation. It is, as we see it, a matter for regret that Secretary Good made it. It is to be regretted for the reason that it comes from a man selected by the president for membership in his cabinet, as it can not do other than lessen by the ratio which one member bears to the entire cabinet membership appreciation of the aggregate judgment of the executive's official family.

And we believe that Mr. Good's statement is to be regretted for another good and sufficient reason, which is that it is not founded upon fact.

Beyond all question, there is much lawlessness in the United States; probably more than ever before in our history. We will not go into the question of whether or no lawlessness in its present proportions antedated the date of the ratification of the latest amendment. The secretary has freed woman suffrage from the charge of responsibility for the increase in it, and we will be no less gallant.

But while there is a great degree of lawlessness in the country, we can not feel that it is fair to charge that we as a people are the most lawless on earth. We feel that a line should be drawn between a lawless people, and a people cursed by lawlessness on the part of one or more elements of the aggregate population of a land.

No matter what one's feeling may be with regard to the cause of prohibition—and we feel the freer to speak of this by reason of the fact that this newspaper has been a consistent advocate of that cause though by no means a defender of the offenses committed under it—all must agree that there is a very general feeling on the part of a large element of our people that the prohibition amendment became a part of the basic law of the land under a constitutional provision which should not have been invoked—that providing for the ratification of a constitutional amendment by the approval of the legislative bodies of three-fourths of the states—for the reason that all know how easily a legislative body may be influenced. There is not a legislative body in the land which is not susceptible to influence. This is true of all legislative bodies from our city council to congress, and including both. We do not hold that such bodies can be bought with cash, but we do hold that all of them may be influenced to do that which, free from such influence, they would not do.

This element, those who like liquor for its effect, the element which imagines that it adds to their prestige to possess and serve liquor in their homes and the element of the youth of the land which thinks it is smart to drink have combined to aid and encourage lawlessness on the part of those who administer to their liquid wants, and by so doing become breakers of the law. Bootleggers and rum runners thrive, until they are wiped out by envious competitors, which adds to the volume of crime against the person, and the naturally vicious and criminal take advantage of the situation to wage war against person and property to a degree perhaps never before equalled in our history as a nation.

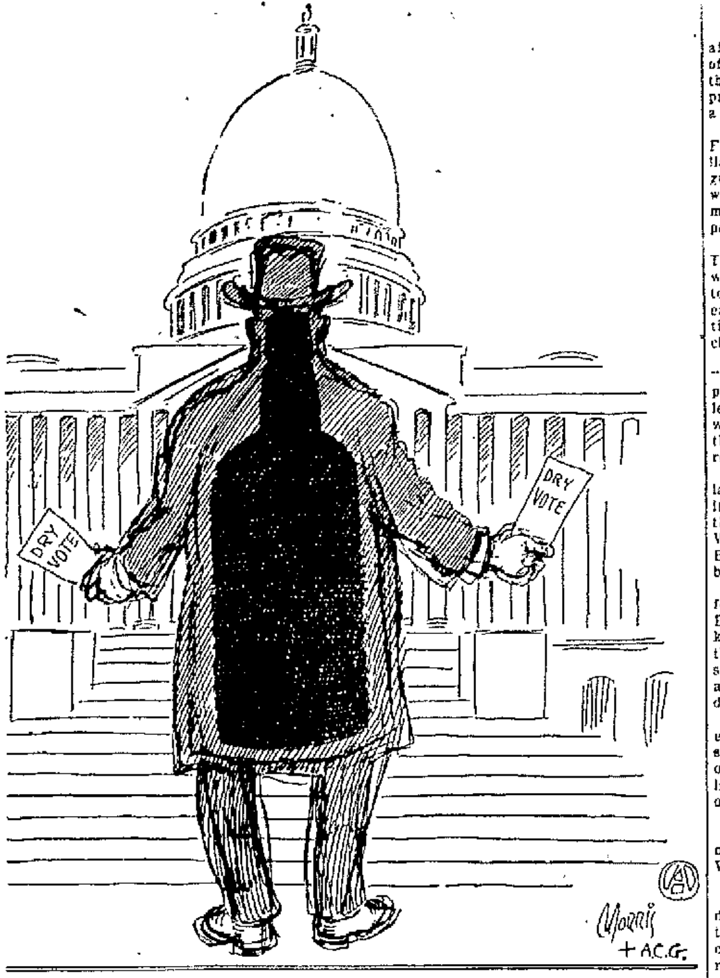
But despite all this and the crime and lawlessness which has been encouraged by the movies, the sex magazines and the sensational press, we hold it unfair to term Americans "the most lawless people upon the face of the earth." The great majority of the American people are law-abiding, and the marked success we have attained as a self-governing people, the one notable success in that regard in all the world's history, may be cited as proof that we are a law-abiding and not a lawless people.

You never can tell. From Washington comes a tip that, despite failure to secure further naval disarmament through negotiations over the counsel table, that end may be accomplished by the construction of the German cruiser, Ersatz Preussen, which is so much superior to anything in the 10,000-ton cruiser class as to make them practically obsolete. The Lord certainly works in mysterious ways His wonders to perform.

President Hoover's message seems to have won the approval of the farm chiefs, if not of the politicians. Still, it's no more than natural that none of the distinguished gentlemen in congress whose chief occupation has been posing as the friend of the farmer would look with equanimity upon any plan which might cause him to wake up some morning and find his occupation gone.

Being held up for a dollar by a youth of seventeen, who explained that he hated to do it, but was out of a job, a Cleveland banker offered to help the youth and told him to call at the bank at which he is a teller. The youth did, and the banker helped him by covering him with a gun, sounding a burglar alarm and causing his arrest. There's something about this story, here told in outline, which doesn't altogether appeal to one.

COMPOSITE PICTURE OF OUR LAW-MAKERS.



Watch Diet in Anemia Cases.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

My friend, Senator Ransdell, of Louisiana, has prepared a bill, proposing to establish a "National Institute of Public Health." The senator is disturbed over the long list of diseases which require study in order that a means of cure may be discovered.

There are a lot of these, too any for our peace of mind. In this list is found pernicious anemia.

What is "Pernicious Anemia?"

You know what "anemia" is, that condition of the blood in which there is a marked decrease in the colored corpuscles of the blood. We observe a waxy condition of the skin, great weakness, and all the symptoms of lowered vitality.

Pernicious anemia is worse than this, a really serious and long-continued disease. The attacks last for months and repeatedly recur over a period of years. There are marked changes in the blood and many disagreeable symptoms. The red coloring material of the blood, essential to health and physical safety, is greatly reduced.

In this disease there is not only an unwillingness to do anything, but this weakness progresses steadily. There are occasional periods of improvement, as I have said, but it is not long before another attack appears.

There are some diseases, the effects of which are due to a failure of some organ of the body to supply a substance essential to our welfare. One such disease is diabetes, in which the secretion of the pancreas—the "sweetbread"—is reduced.

This particular secretion is known as "insulin." without it the tissues are unable to take sugar from the blood. Then trouble results.

In pernicious anemia we are not so fortunate as is the case in diabetes. In the latter disease, with the cause known, it has been found possible to give insulin and thus overcome the failure of the pancreas to make it.

In progressive anemia the missing factor has not been located and, as yet, no way is known of supplying it, as insulin is supplied. But some patient research worker will find it.

In the treatment of pernicious anemia the authorities are pretty well in agreement. They all advise that rest in bed is of great importance. The poor victim is kept in his room for weeks at a time.

Various forms of medication are advised. The family doctor must determine what to do in a particular case.

Perhaps the thing of chief value is the proper feeding of the patient. Much depends on giving an abundance of good food.

Many special diets have been recommended in pernicious anemia. Things that are easy of digestion and capable of improving the general nourishment of the body, have been agreed upon as valuable. We, too, can agree to this, because it should be the test to apply to all our eating, in health as well as in disease.

A full quota of protein food, supplied by milk and the vegetables, is important. The importance of the protein foods is the reason why muscle meat and liver have been so highly recommended.

In pernicious anemia the blood building processes of the body are seriously reduced. To overcome this defect we must give blood building foods. One of the best of these is liver, perhaps calf's liver because it is less fat.

The liver may be taken broiled, baked, minced, or made into soup. It should be prepared without fat because this food element is harmful in the disease we are considering.

Green vegetables, fruits, sweet-potatoes, as well as the other foods I have mentioned, are useful in pernicious anemia. These are a few suggestions which may be helpful in its control.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

C. L. Q—What can be done for neuralgia in the face, accompanied by headache, pain and soreness in the throat and cheek, also affecting the tongue and causing loss of taste? I weigh 135 pounds and am sixty-five years of age. I expectorate all the time.

A—Find the source of infection first of all—it would be impossible to advise you more definitely without making careful examination. Application of heat should give increased comfort meanwhile.

A—Proper diet and general care. For further information send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

Editorial Opinion.

SENATORS-AT-LARGE.

What to do with former presidents of the United States continues to be a subject of wide discussion. Senator Fess, of Ohio, has just come forward with a suggestion that when a man retires from the White House he automatically becomes a senator-at-large for life at a salary of $25,000 per annum. There really seems little occasion for excitement over the future of former presidents of the United States. At present there are two living former presidents, William Howard Taft, chief justice, and Calvin Coolidge, private citizen. Both appear to be amply able to take care of themselves and their families. Rarely has there been a time when there have been more than two living ex-presidents of the United States.

The best plan, probably, is to permit former presidents to do what they wish. A man who has been chief executive of the United States is usually quite capable of looking after himself. This was true of the late President Theodore Roosevelt, for example, and of Grover Cleveland and others who have attained the high office of president. When he left the White House, Woodrow Wilson was a very sick man. Fortunately he had made provision for his own future, however, and his last years were passed in comfort so far as money could make them so.

The proposal of Senator Fess is made not only for the purpose of giving ex-presidents a competence for the remainder of their lives, but also that the senate may have the benefit of the advice of former presidents. The Ohio senator argues that their wide experience and knowledge of public affairs, gained in the White House, should be used continuously for the public good. However, it is possible for former presidents of the United States to get the ear of the public whenever they wish to give the country the benefit of their advice, without their becoming senators. Former President Coolidge today is busily engaged in giving expression to his own views on public affairs through writing magazine articles. This latest ex-president has just made it clear in one of these articles that he is desirous of entering again into active life as a private citizen of the United States. He even considers it a privilege, he says, to become once more a citizen unattached to the government, but in a position to work for the good of the country as a private citizen. Apparently Senator Fess need waste no sympathy upon Mr. Coolidge.

Mr. Coolidge has been urged by friends in Massachusetts to run for the senate next fall, to succeed Senator Gillet. If the former president determines to enter the lists, he may become senator by the vote of the people of his own state. Doubtless they will be fully able to determine whether they wish to be represented in the upper house by Mr. Coolidge and how long they desire to retain him in the senate, should he ever go to that body. Every other former president would be in a position also to seek election to the senate if he desired to do so.

In order to make effective the plan proposed by Senator Fess it would be necessary to amend the constitution. Amending the constitution is no easy process, and the Fess idea of caring for former presidents does not appear likely to be tried out.—Washington Star.

BRITISH BUDGET.

The Churchill budget speech reporting a substantial surplus for the past year and announcing removal of the tax on tea will be the government's strongest argument in the present campaign.

Liberals and Laborites alike are running on platforms which call for huge public expenditures for the relief of unemployment. The Conservative answer of further deficits of higher taxes is easy to anticipate. The duty remission of tea, involving as it will a saving of $30,000,000, doubtless has a political basis.

Without regard to the politics of the British fiscal situation it will be admitted that the present government has done well to avoid deficits in the face of huge expenditures for unemployment doles, and the nation-wide depression in industry which has tended to keep down the revenues from taxation. It would have been easier to borrow and to have made political capital of tax reductions.

When it is remembered that the British budget at present calls for practically the same expenditures as our own, and a comparison is made of British and American resources, the tax burden that the British government has imposed is seen in its true light. The wonder is not that dissatisfaction exists but that Baldwin has been able to hang on all these years since the Laborites were defeated in 1924.

But sound fiscal policies are not ordinarily as good vote getters as promises of public work and relief from unemployment. Which doubtless explains why there is so much uncertainty regarding the outcome of next month's election.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Seek good, and not evil, that ye may live: and so the Lord, the God of Hosts, shall be with you, as ye have spoken.—Amos 5:14.

Prayer—Lord, we would seek the good and not the evil, and cleave to Thee all our days.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. M'INTYRE.

New York, April 18—No actress or actor in affluent years expects to become an inmate of a home for aged and indigent players. But they are confident of their improvidence and prepare for the rainy days. Few are without a life membership in some peaceful haven.

The two best-known perhaps are the Actor's Fund home on Staten island and Percy Williams home at Islip. There are about thirty guests in each, and while not embarrassed with actual cash, many in declining days have more comforts than they ever had in prosperity.

Theatrical folk do not forget their guild. There are always visitors with presents, those willing to entertain and other varied efforts to keep life from the tedium of neglect. In each home, too, there is a sharp class distinction. Achievement is honored with special recognition.

In one a former leading lady for Booth is "the first lady." In another an actress who played with Salvini is recognized as the social leader. There is the attitude that exists toward the star in the theater. But most of the guests are those who played in lesser roles.

In agreeable weather they gather on the lawn and one of the diversions, not without its amusing touch, is a polite "panning" of the venerable Mrs. Whiffen. At eighty, Mrs. Whiffen continues to appear at intervals on Broadway and thus scorn the institutional beneficence.

One of the guests who departed after a few weeks for greater activity was Frankie Bailey, whose shapely limbs won such renown in days when Lew Fields was choking the daylights out of Joe Weber. She is past sixty, but looks no more than forty, and has a treasure that would bring complete independence.

This is a table cloth upon which she has embroidered the most distinguished list of signatures ever collected. Nearly every star of the past fifty years in America and Europe is represented, as are several presidents and others looming big in the pages of history.

Punishment and Consequence.

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS.

The question of the effectiveness of puni ment in preventing crime is of course, psychological problem. What is the reactio of punishment upon the criminal mind? can not be of a restraining nature unless t punishment is absolutely certain to foll the crime. If there is doubt about that, restraining influence is exerted. Discreti and enactments which tend to create su doubt or uncertainty render criminal law mockery.

Shall we imitate the laws of nature social organization, or not? In nature t equivalent of what the law calls "punis ment" is "consequence." But nature's con sequences are inevitable. They are never mitted. Violate a law of nature and the co sequence follows at once without any sen mental hesitation. Fundamentally, the cri inal enactments of all countries were, to b gin with, consciously or unconsciously modeled on the plan of nature. The con trolling idea was the inevitability of co sequences, and punishments were only a other name for consequences. The thought vengeance only entered in with certain la decrees of envious or revengeful despot

If human society ought to remain organiz on this simple, straightforward, efficient, u sentimental scheme of nature, then the should be no shrinkage from the law of co sequence. It should be adopted as the u changeable law of human criminology. Th in such circumstances punishment, standi in the place of consequence, would be a almost certain restraint upon criminality, wh can doubt?

If you put your hand in the fire it will b burnt. If you jump off a hundred-foot tow or precipice you will be crushed. If you ru your car on the rails in front of an expre train you and yours will be struck. Becau these consequences are certain, people do n put their hands into the fire, or jump fro high places or purposely get in front of ru ning trains. The fear of the known con sequence—punishment—holds them back.

The only recourse of those who woul abolish punishment inflicted by law, or re duce it toward a vanishing point, or render it uncertain to such an extent that it could no longer be regarded as a consequence o criminality, must be to take the ground tha human association should not be organize on the same plan as nature's laws. The should claim the right of society to abolis in its relations the principle of consequences and to substitute the variable rule of huma emotion, sympathy, sentiment, with all th excesses, illogicalities, contradictions, shift ings, veerings and caprices that characteriz that rule.

But the opponents of a system such a that point to the loss of restraining powe that accompanies all uncertainty. They ad mit the full force and beauty of "merc seasoning justice" as pictured by Shakes peare's "Portia," yet claim that society ca not escape chaos, as human nature now i and apparently always will be, if punishmen for crime is to be robbed of the quality o consequence, and made to resemble Selden' famous description of "Equity" as a "rogu thing; 'tis all one as if they should mak the standard for measure the chancellor foot."—Copyright, 1929, International Fe tures Service, Inc.

Dr. Jui Ching Hsia, Chinese philosopher teaching in Columbia university, has been making a survey of the characteristics of boys and girls in an American city. He finds girls more sociable than boys. He defines sociability as "social adaptability," social intelligence, and the ability to get along with other people. Sociable people have the advantage in winning advanced places in the world. If the wise Chinese teacher is right boys must give serious attention to their deficiency. It is hard enough to compet with girls in almost any line.

I was determined to have a clear skin
A clear skin comes from within
Skin troubles foretell a body weakness—a lack of red blood cells
If you desire a clear skin and the blessing of good health, your blood must keep your blood in good condition
S.S.S.

Everyone has the right to be proud of a clear skin

A CLEAR, smooth, lovely skin bespeaks rich, red blood. It is Nature's outward reflection of the condition within you.

Men and women, both justly covet admiration. Everyone can expect such satisfaction to its fullest extent if they are the possessors of a clear, unblemished skin.

If you are unfortunate in having skin blemishes, pimples, boils, eczema—you owe it to yourself and friends to remove the cause. Nature will then provide the complexion which is so much desired.

S.S.S. has been a blessing to millions of people who have taken advantage of its wonderful medicinal properties. It gives to Nature what it needs in building you up so that your system throws off the cause.

The sure way to reach this state is through the blood

When your system is filled with rich, red blood, the body's power of resistance to infection and disease is raised. Your appetite improves, firm flesh takes the place of that which was once flabby. You sleep soundly. You feel strong. Your nerves become steady. S.S.S. helps Nature build red blood-cells.

Take S.S.S. daily at mealtime. Seek energy, vitality, and a clear skin, through the great blood tonic which is made from fresh vegetable drugs and has stood the test of over 100 years. All good drug stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical.

WHAT TERRIBLE EVIL LAY BEHIND ITS MASK?

[illegible] stirring all else mo[illegible] forgotten It was sudden [illegible] spectacle And then [illegible] Sayles, sitting di[illegible] to the empty candlestick [illegible] brows and stare Sayle[illegible] the same incredible thing [illegible]

[illegible] were not deceiving her [illegible] was weird in the extreme [illegible]ded glow over a vanished [illegible] made her imagine a banshee [illegible] grave

[illegible] movement around the [illegible] her from her abstraction [illegible] left the ghostly flame and [illegible] toward the opening in the [illegible] of the room Footsteps were [illegible] that direction—slow [illegible]red steps—and the sound [illegible] they were coming straight to[illegible] table

[illegible] scraped against the floor [illegible] women jerked back in her [illegible] out her arms in horror [illegible] matters passed around the [illegible] Viola sat in a cold mind drug[illegible] The disembodied candle [illegible] was weird enough but this was [illegible] times more so

[illegible] footsteps brought up against the table An unearthly chill took possession of her She had heard [illegible] human footsteps—but [illegible] human form She shuddered [illegible] The footfalls had ceased

Her brain whirled crazily [illegible] disembodied candle flame then disembodied footsteps! She had a vague and maddening impression that some one was standing directly behind Mallingham's chair but she could see no one And now a voice—a voice com[illegible] of sheer emptiness

"[illegible] are a fool Mallingham"

[illegible] a mild voice sounding just as [illegible] and sluggish as the foot[illegible] had sounded Mallingham [illegible]ked up his shoulders as if he [illegible] felt the sting of sharp steel

"[illegible] was a foolish toast you proposed" the voice went on "I shall propose a different one di[illegible]"

[illegible] produced a paralyzing effect on the diners, this ghostly voice coming out of nothingness. One of the women gave a low trembling moan then leaned back in a faint. Mallingham's face was deathly white. A frozen sickly smile hung on his lips.

Viola glanced again at the empty candlestick. She shuddered. The wraithy flame was still burning in empty air.

"Mallingham," the voice was saying, "you were proposing a toast to life a while ago. It was a foolish toast. I propose a toast to death—or rather to some one who is dead. He has been dead for seven years, but he is alive among you tonight—you smirking dollar-grabbing crowd. He is dominating your lives tonight. You are afraid of him. And he is teasing you. Can't you hear him laughing at you?"

A dead silence followed, but instinctively all eyes were drawn to the portrait of Old Winthrop, looking very dim and a little sinister in the shadows against the wall. A glassy tinkle sounded, and again the voice spoke.

"To Winthrop Gaston [illegible]."

Again a tinkling sound came, followed by an interval of uneasy silence, and then a melodious bell fell on the room.

Old Winthrop's clock was striking the half hour.

A gentle laugh sounded. It came from the stranger whom no eyes could visualize.

Mallingham drew up his shoulders and made as if to address the invisible guest, but he subsided with an air of bafflement.

Oddly enough it was Horace Peters, plainly the most nervous individual among the male members of the company, who in the end found courage to raise his voice.

"Would you mind telling us," Peters blustered, "who the devil you are?"

"My name is of no consequence."

"Are you a ghost, a devil, or just a magician?"

"A little of each. You are asking foolish questions. Let me give you a warning—no, two warnings. Beware of the iron door. Don't enter it until the clock stops. And remember this: Curry was Old Winthrop's friend. His murderer is sitting at this table. He can't see me, but I'm looking straight at him this very moment."

"Ugh!" Peters muttered. "He gives me the jimmies. If he knows the murderer, why doesn't he tell us his name?"

"You will know in time," the voice declared. "The murderer will be punished. That's all."

A moment later the footsteps sounded again. The gathering sat hushed, spellbound, staring in the direction of the retreating footfalls. The iron door squeaked, closed with a clang. Viola sat staring at the empty candlestick. Something flickered before her vision. A spiral of green rose from the silver holder, meeting the wraithy flame. It was blurred at first, but gradually it assumed shape. The green candle was floating back as mysteriously as it had faded away.

"Whew!" Horace Peters exclaimed in shaky tones. "I'm all chills and fevers!"

"Imagine a voice without a body!" cried the widow seated beside Tuckerman.

"And a flame without a candle!" was Viola's silent remark.

"The voice was the strangest part of it," said Mallingham, rousing himself from a state of heavy brooding. "Did any one recognize it?"

A faint tremulous cry broke from Julia's lips. "I wasn't sure, but if you recognized it too, then—" She swallowed with difficulty. "But it isn't possible! It couldn't—"

Mallingham merely smiled.

* * *

It was 10 o'clock at night, but night or day had little meaning in an entombed house where the light of day never reached. Hannan, greatly strengthened after a long sleep, sat staring absently at Viola Lane's little pistol.

"I'll get her a pearl-handled one some day," was his thought.

He wondered what was keeping Viola. She had promised to come in and see him before she retired for the night. The dinner must have been over long ago, and he was anxious for news. Perhaps something unusual had happened again. Perhaps Viola had discovered a pair of creaking shoes. He felt a *des*perate longing for her stimulating companionship.

"Yes," he murmured, contemplating the simple handle, "she ought to have a pearl-handled one. All heroines should—"

He pricked up his ears. He sat listening for a moment, then hurriedly blew out the candle and lay down as if composing himself for sleep. In a few moments his deep even breathing would have convinced any casual listener that he was in slumber land. The noises overhead had subsided into an intermittent speaking and grinding, so there was little to disturb him.

A clear chime fell on the uneasy stillness of the house, reaching Hannan's room in tones subdued by heavy walls. The chime died away. An interval of silence came. Then a sound much too faint to disturb a sleeping man rasped lightly on the darkness.

Ever so slightly the door squeaked on its hinges. Muffled footfalls approached Hannan's bed, but still Hannan appeared to hear nothing. Far from being disturbed by the footsteps, he was talking in his sleep.

"Funny about that clock. Never stops.— Yes, she ought to have a pearl-handled one. Hope Curry swallows that wooden cigar. No, Peters, the great Horace never said anything like that. What's happened to Old Blighty? In a terrible rage over something. I knew all the time she wasn't a pickpocket." A few prolonged intakes of breath, a drowsy mumble, then in a clear, wide-awake voice: "Careful, Pelly. I wouldn't come a step closer if I were you. I can hear you even if I can't see you. My ears have a pretty keen trigger sense."

A mutter of vexation sounded in the darkness.

"Sit down, Pelly, but don't come any closer," Hannan added pleasantly. "What you need is a thorough fumigating. Beats everything how tobacco sticks to a fellow's togs. You are a walking advertisement for your own brand of cigarettes. And you walk so softly, Pelly. I suppose you didn't want to disturb my slumber. Awfully considerate of you. No, don't move, Pelly. This pistol may go off."

With that Mallingham reached over and lighted the candle. Mallingham, his face darker than usual, stood a few paces aside.

"I suppose you've come to shoot me again, eh, Pelly? It's getting monotonous. Why do people want to shoot holes in me?"

"Don't be a fool, Martenet," Mallingham spoke gruffly as he seated himself. "I don't want to shoot you. I've decided you aren't important enough. I just dropped in to see how you were getting on."

"That's sweet of you, Pelly." Hannan sat on the side of the bed and dangled the pistol playfully. "So different from the cold shoulder and the gimlet eye you gave me once. By the way, Pelly, guess why I pretended to be asleep when you walked in. I wanted to listen."

"Listen to what?"

"Your shoes."

"My—what?"

"Your shoes, Pelly. I was curious to know if they creaked."

"What sort of drivel are you talking?"

"I discovered they don't creak," said Hannan soberly. "So that's that."

"And suppose they had?"

"Well, that would be telling. By the way, did you see anything of my bodyguard as you walked in?"

"Who? Oh, you mean John Breex. No, he wasn't at his post. He must have been called away." Mallingham regarded him silently for a moment. "Martenet, I didn't come here just to inquire about your health."

Hannan gave a mock sigh. "Now you spoil it. I thought this was to be the beginning of a beautiful friendship. Now you tell me you came here with an ulterior motive. Well, let's have it."

Mallingham seemed to choose his words carefully.

"I wish you would appease my curiosity on one point. You dropped out of sight in New York shortly after your arrival there. You turn up at Valhalla Notch with a wound in your shoulder. How come?"

"Oh, that's simple enough. I was pitched headlong into a mass of mysteries the moment I arrived in New York. I had an idea the solution was to be found in Valhalla Notch. That's why I came here. Anything else, Pelly?"

"Yes, where does Miss Lane come in?"

"Wish I knew," said Hannan with heartfelt sincerity.

Mallingham gave him a sharp look. "Has any one told you what happened at dinner tonight?"

"No. Hope Peters didn't choke on a fishbone."

"No, nothing as unexciting as that."

"Then what—" Hannan suddenly jerked himself straight. "Did anything happen to—to Miss Lane?"

Mallingham's lips curled in a sneer. "No, nothing has happened to Miss Lane. Providence protects fools and pretty women. It isn't such a prodigious task, for the two are often one."

"What happened, then?"

"I don't think I shall tell you after all. You are still an invalid and the news may excite you. There is another topic I want to discuss with you. Last time we referred to the subject you told me you had no idea how the iron door may be opened safely."

"And I haven't," said Hannan flatly. "Even if I had, I wouldn't tell you."

Mallingham regarded him searchingly. "I'm inclined to believe you," he said coldly. "My first impression was correct. You are just a bumptious fool. Good-night."

"Sweet dreams," said Hannan. He grinned as Mallingham walked out. For a little while he sat alone and then the door opened again to admit Viola.

Jubilee's Pardner

* * *

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

THERE wasn't a cloud in the sky this morning when I kicked Jubilee out of bed and went and opened the window to let him down by the rope in his teeth and it was getting daylight already at half past five. My father says that getting up early while I am a boy will be a great help to me all my life because it will give me the early rising habit and the fella that gets up early has time for more work. And my mother said that the fella that gets up early is an everlasting nuisance to his wife because she can't sleep any more after he gets up, and my aunt said that men are an everlasting nuisance anyway, and my grandfather said if she should ever succeed in catching one and getting better acquainted with them she would probly find out they ain't so bad. Then she got mad and refused to say any more and he chuckled way down in his whiskers and I swiped a couple of pancakes and was sliding out the back door when my mother called to me to come back and I thought she had seen me swipe the pancakes but she was calling me back because Annabelle Lee wanted to kiss me goodbye so I let her kiss me on the cheek and wiped it off with the towel when I went through the kitchen.

We all went around past Younkers on the way to school and Feeble and Maggie, the girl that got vaccinated on her leg, was there, and Younkers' mother gave us an apple to eat at recess and we et them on the way to school except the girls. Girls always do like they are told and that is the reason they are girls.

Spider and Mealy Gutwaltz met us at the corner and Spider asked Nibs for the core to his apple and Nibs said, Certainly, and pasted him in the face with it, and Mealy grabbed a handful of mud out of the gutter and plastered one of Nibs' ears shut with it. Then Nibs went to chase her and Spider tripped him and he went on his chin, then both the Gutwaltzes skun out for school, and all Nibs got out of it was a skun chin and an ear full of mud. He will learn to let them alone after a while.

When we got to the top of the stairs the teacher was standing there and Feeble asked her if she would like to have an apple, and the teacher smiled and reached for it, and just then it fell out of Feeble's hand right on the top step. The teacher stooped and made a quick grab for it, and Feeble stooped and hit against the high end of the teacher and overbalanced her and she started falling down the stairs, and Feeble looked disgusted and bent her knees and started rolling downstairs too. The teacher got up mad, and then she saw Feeble laying there rubbing herself, so she helped her up and we all went in our room. Feeble looked crosseyed at me and then I knew she had done it on purpose. I had a good mind to tell the teacher, because she was good to Podgers. But I ain't a tattle tail.

The Heart Story of a Woman's Lasting Affections

BY ADELE GARRISON

Madge Tactfully Relieves Mother Graham as Nurse to Mary

MOTHER GRAHAM came to the door of Mary's room in answer to my light knock.

"Sh-h!" she said, raising a cautionary forefinger. "She is asleep."

"Oh, no, I'm not," Mary said from the bed. "Sorry, Grandie, to confess it, but I just waked up."

"Of course," her grandmother said haughtily. "Your aunt Margaret's entrance wakened you. It's too bad, for you were just getting to sleep. You need it so badly. I do not see why it is people always seem to have so little consideration for a sleeping person."

This from Mother Graham, who would not hesitate to disturb a reigning monarch's slumber if she had the [illegible] and wished to ask him a question! From behind her back I sent an amused smile to Mary and a silent warning not to come to my defense with a contradiction of her grandmother's patently mistaken assertion.

"I'm so sorry," I said with apparent contrition. "But now that I have waked her I may as well tell you my errand."

"I suppose you may," my mother-in-law assented grudgingly. "It should be very important to warrant your rushing in like this."

"It is," I said cheerily, resolved not to let her captiousness annoy me, for I knew that it was but a mannerism and did not reflect her real feelings. "Katherine and I have agreed that you have played nurse long enough, and that it is now time for you to take a good long nap."

She bristled with the ability to see an affront in any casual remark which is hers to perfection.

"I am not aware that I have complained of feeling tired," she said loftily.

"Of course you haven't," I told her. "You wouldn't complain if you were ready to drop from weariness. But there really isn't any use of your wearing yourself out when there's some one to relieve you for the rest of the afternoon."

"It depends upon the person," she said decidedly. "Who is to take my place in caring for my granddaughter?"

"I was going to offer my services," I said meekly.

Behind her grandmother's back Mary put up her hands and applauded noiselessly. With an effort I kept my face properly solemn as my mother-in-law looked at me searchingly.

"I should think you would have your hands full," she commented, "without trying to be a nurse as well."

But though her words were discouraging, her tone was yielding, and I knew that I had won my point. She was tired with the deep fatigue which comes to old people, and I knew that, though her devotion to duty and to her granddaughter would have kept her at her post for hours, she was glad indeed to anticipate the long nap which she takes almost every afternoon.

"I have been busy," I said, "but I am finished with everything now and haven't a thing more to see to until dinner. And I am not at all tired, for I slept late this morning. So please, Mother, let me stay with Mary while you have a nap. I'll promise to do just as you say."

"There's nothing to do," she said, patently mollified by my offer, "only to wait on her when she wants anything and keep her from talking too much. Mrs. Hickett wants her to get as much sleep as she can. If you think you can spare the time, I don't mind saying that I would like a little nap. But it won't be a long one. I shall be back long before dinner."

She swept out of the room in regal fashion, and Mary giggled softly when I had closed the door after me.

"Poor Grandie!" she said. "I oughtn't to laugh, but she is so funny when she's on her high horse. And as for that little nap—what'll you bet you'll have to wake her for dinner?"

"I know I shall," I returned a bit gravely. "She is really very tired, you know."

"Oh, I know," she said contritely, and I realized that her apparent callousness was the result of nerves, not indifference to her grandmother's comfort. "She's been perfectly marvelous to me, only she's been treating me as if I had about two hours to live and you know there really is nothing the matter with me at all. And I'm simply dying to know what has happened. Grandie has been as mysterious as if she alone knew where the body was buried and wouldn't tell. I'm sure something queer has been going on, for Aunt Katherine hasn't been near me all day, and I heard people going through the hall as if they were carrying something heavy—oh-h!"

She broke off and clutched me by the sleeve, her eyes wide with terror.

"Noel," she gasped. "Has anything happened to Noel?"

SORE LEGS HEALED

STOMACH UPSET

Get at the real cause. That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy don't care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Take Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. Know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain. All druggists.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like. 15c, 30c, 60c.—Adv.

And 32,000 demonstrators of washers say—

"Clothes wash whiter with Rinso!" say more than 32,000 demonstrators of washing machines. They learned. The sale of their washers depends on quick, safe, [illegible] results—and they have learned by experience that they can depend on Rinso. [illegible]

WHEN the makers of 36 leading washing machines say, "Use Rinso!"—they know what they are talking about! They want women to be completely satisfied—to get the best possible results—and they know that Rinso's thick suds mean whiter, brighter washes.

Rinso is the famous granulated laundry soap that is so compact that one cupful gives more suds than two cupfuls of lightweight, puffed-up soaps.

And what suds! Thick, creamy, lasting—no wonder dirt loosens and floats off! Clothes come from washer or tub so white, even boiling isn't necessary.

You can trust your finest cottons and linens to Rinso—it's safe. Get the BIG household package and keep it handy. For economy and best results, just follow the easy directions on the box.

For tub washing, too

Rinso is a great work-saver for those who have no washing machine. It soaks clothes whiter than they can be scrubbed. That saves the clothes, and hands, too.

Try Rinso's creamy suds for dishes, floors, walls, bathtubs, basins. Makes all cleaning easier.

Doctor Found What is Best for Thin, Constipated People

W. B. Caldwell M.D.
AT AGE 83

As a family doctor at Monticello Illinois the whole human body not any small part of it was Dr Caldwell's practice. More than half his calls were on women children and babies. They are the ones most often sick. But their illnesses were usually of a minor nature—colds fevers headaches biliousness—and all of them required first a thorough evacuation. They were constipated.

In the course of his 47 years practice (he was graduated from Rush Medical College back in 1875) he found a good deal of success in such cases with a prescription of his own containing simple laxative herbs with pepsin. In 1892 he decided to use this formula in the manufacture of a medicine to be known as Dr Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and in that year his prescription was first placed on the market.

The preparation immediately had as great a success in the drug stores as it previously had in his private practice. Now the third generation is using it. Mothers are giving it to their children who were given it by their mothers. Every second of the working day someone somewhere is going into a drug store to buy it. Millions of bottles of Dr Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin are being used a year.

Its great success is based on merit on repeated buying on its satisfied user telling another. There are thousands of homes in this country that are never without a bottle of Dr Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and we have gotten many hundreds of letters from grateful people telling us that it helped them when everything else failed. Every drug store sells Dr Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.—Adv

FIFTH BALL LEAGUE LIKELY IN MARION

EXPECT ADDITIONAL CHURCH TEAMS TO JOIN THIS SEASON

Commission Members To Hold Meeting Here Monday Night

BY KARL R. McELROY
Sports Editor, The Star

THIS game of recreation ball, a sport that many of the dyed-in-the-wool baseball players classify as not fit for a healthy he-man to cast even a scornful glance upon, is going to be more popular this season than last.

Although the entry blanks are coming in mighty slow at the present time, talk around the Y. M. C. A. seems to indicate that a fifth league will be necessary to accommodate all the nines expected to enter before the deadline April 25.

Tuning in the old two-tube listening apparatus on a little gossip going the rounds, the writer learned that the Sunday School leagues will be over-crowded with teams.

Indications show that 16 teams taking part in the two leagues last season will be back in the running again. That seems to be quite the berries with all concerned. The catch comes in with the announcement that several local churches not represented in the past would like to enter.

According to plans of the recreation commission, eight teams in one league will be the limit this season, last year's taste of a nine-team loop proving a bitter pill.

Much will depend on the entries in the other two leagues, the Industrial and Commercial. If these two loops are filled then a fifth league will be required.

The interest in recreation ball is not confined to Marion alone. Teams throughout the county are taking up the game and it is possible that several outside teams will seek league franchises this season. It is rumored that Prospect would like to place two teams.

Plenty of work will face members of the recreation ball commission before the opening of the season sometime in May. A meeting will be held at the Y Monday night when President Norris Crisslnger will name his standing committees.

Problems confronting the league include the revision of rule book, simplification of the eligibility requirements in the Sunday School leagues and the drawing up of a schedule.

The rule book revision has been advocated after the trouble on interpretation that rocked the game last season. From present indications, the rule book will be completely revised.

George Uhle Gives Tribe Laugh as Detroit Tigers Win; Cincy Downs Cards

Former Cleveland Moundsman Keeps Indian Hits Scattered To Even Up Series; Reds in Four-Way Tie for First Place In National League Race

BY BOB ELLIOTT

BIG GEORGE UHLE, who averaged about two well pitched ball games a season while doing mound duty for the Cleveland Indians, turned the tables on his former mates yesterday, hurling the Detroit Tigers to a 15 to 3 victory over the tribe in the second game of the opening series. It was indeed sweet revenge for the Big Boy, Mr. Uhle holding the tribe to 10 scattered bingles, one of which however, was Earl Averill's second circuit clout.

Uhle was unable to do anything at all with either Joie Sewell or the young and ambitious boy with the big bat. Sewell put the wood to the old apple for two doubles and one single while Averill managed to get two singles in addition to his four base smash over the right field screen. Uhle had little or no trouble with the rest of the Indian batting order. Dale Alexander, the Tigers new first sacker, popped out two doubles, batted in two runs and scored three more himself. Harry Heilmann was the big thorn in the side of the Indians, the right gardener scoring three runs and batting in five more.

Jackie Tavener and Ken Holloway, for whom "Roc" Peckinpaugh gave George Uhle were nothing short of immense busts in their debuts against their former mates. Tavener went hitless and made two costly bobbles while Holloway departed from the pastime in the second inning.

Down along the banks of the Ohio we find Jack Hendrick's Reds in a four way tie for first place as the result of an 8 to 3 setback handed to the St. Louis Cards yesterday. Pete Donohue gave 10 hits but was never in danger while the Reds made their 12 hits off Wee Willie Sherdel count for something besides increased batting averages. Walter Shaner, the Red's new outfielder, who looks like Babe Ruth, snagged six hard chances in the left garden and got two safe bingles out of four appearances at the plate. Everybody on the Red team got at least one safety with the exception of Leo Dixon, the rookie catcher and Pinkies Pittenger, the third sacker. Sunny Jim Bottomley led the Cards attack with a home run and a two base smash. He also scored two of the Red Bird's three runs.

The Reds pulled three double killings and again played an errorless game. The Cincinnati team has yet to make a bobble in the field.

Hornsby's homer with the bases loaded and Hack Wilson's four hits featured as the Cubs slaughtered four Pittsburgh pitchers in a 13 to 2 landslide, obtaining revenge for their inaugural day defeat.

The St. Louis Browns, thanks to their two pitching aces, are the first team to win two games. Sam Gray won on Tuesday and General Crowder tamed the White Sox yesterday, 5 to 3. Blue had a perfect day at bat with four hits.

The supposedly crippled Athletics got the jump on the idle Yankees by murdering the Senators, 13 to 4. Jones and Braxton were knocked out and Walter Johnson's managerial debut at Washington was ruined, the only redeeming feature being the feat of Ad Liska, submarine pitcher from Minneapolis, in holding the Mackmen hitless in the last four innings.

BRITAINS CONFIDENT OF RYDER CUP, OPEN

Captain of Team Says America's Winning Days Are Ended

LONDON, April 18—"We shall win the Ryder cup and the open golf championship as well."

This was the prediction made to International News Service today by George Duncan, captain of the British Ryder cup golf team. His confidence was reflected as he continued:

"This talk about American predominance is nonsense. Certainly, the Americans have done particularly well in the post-war British championships, but I think they have had rather the better of the luck. The pendulum can not always swing one way, and it is swinging back to Britain now.

"It has been said that a British golfer is afflicted by an inferiority complex when he plays against an American, and consequently he is beaten by his own imagination. Rubbish!

"In the case of Walter Hagen the Americans have an amazing personality. He never knows defeat, and, to an extent, he might imbue an opponent with a sense of his 'magnificence.' But that is not going to happen at Moortown. Walter will not pull the wool over any British eyes this year.

"I say that we shall be confident from the word 'Go;' confident all through the match, and victorious at the finish. I am not alone in thinking this. Ask any one of my men and see what he thinks of his own individual chance of winning. There never was a humbler crew."

M'GRAW IS SEEKING THOMPSON IN TRADE WITH PHILADELPHIA

Giant Manager Getting Gentle Razzing from New York Editors

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

NEW YORK, April 18—Maybe it isn't good cricket to be talking about a man behind his back but I really think the whistle-blowers ought to know that John McGraw probably is breaking one of the 10 commandments so hard today that they won't be able to put it together again with a patent rawhide. John is perfectly satisfied to let the neighbor have his wife but is doing a lot of first class coveting of that gentleman's goods and the reason I know this is that the New York correspondents traveling with the Giants are busy today telling their readers about the great things John can do for the Philadelphia ball club.

And what can the Phillies do for John? Just so, Wolfgang, my boy. They can give him Fresco Thompson their second baseman. They can but, unless I mistake their Mr. Shotton, I don't believe they will.

His Old Stride

However, there is much dialogue being aired in New York about a Giant-Philadelphia trade, which means that John, the greatest man for overlooking a player he has been looking over, is back in his old time stride. He needed at least two looks at Roush and Groh, for example, and the second glance in each case cost him about twice as much as plenty. This Thompson not only was with the New York club between the setting of one sun and the rising of another several years ago; he grew up in the town and played a lot of high school baseball only a trolley car ride from the Polo Grounds.

Of course, this is being a bit harsh with our Mr. McGraw. He has turned up more than his share of big leaguers during the last 20 years but the fact is that when he muffs one, he does it so elaborately that everybody scores standing up. And by the looks of things, he muffed Thompson so badly that he will stay muffed.

Waiting on Thevenow

For one thing, Shotton has only to wait until Thevenow recovers and we will have an infield without the necessity of consulting Mr. McGraw. For another, the recent history of trading between the New York and Philadelphia clubs has been like a waiter's shirt front—all one sided.

Some few years ago, John needed an infielder; so he gave the Phillies three or four bowsers and took Dave Bancroft. About the same time, he found he needed a right hand hitting outfielder and sent in another order of bowsers and took Irish Meusel. These magnificent transactions promoted John into four straight pennants and a major league record between 1921 and 1924.

Shotton Takes Care of Self

Perhaps it isn't necessary to say that, thereafter, money became more familiar to a lot of clubs in baseball, even the Phils, nor is it exactly expedient to add that John hasn't won a pennant since. This might have been only a coincidence and, therefore, had nothing to do with the fact that these one-way deals ceased to be. He certainly staked himself to none the better of things when everybody was all a twitter over Hepline and Grimes and the Phillies, through Mr. Shotton's good offices, agreed to accept Thompson. Nor did he do himself altogether proud in the O'Neil-Leach deal. In brief, I have come to regard Mr. Shotton as a very reliable man in the matter of taking care of Mr. Shotton.

However, now that we have lifted this load off the bosom, it is to be presumed that the deal will be wrapped up and delivered with the morning groceries. For Mr. Baker is another of those fellows who may be suspected of having a vulgar interest in money.

Columbus Fielder Gets Five Homers in Four Games

COLUMBUS April 18—Five home runs in four games is the feat of Charley High of the Columbus club of the American Association baseball team. The rightfielder knocked out one each in the two exhibition games here with the Vanquans of the Cincinnati Reds last Saturday and Sunday. In the opening of the official 1929 season against the Minneapolis Millers Monday High knocked out another in the sixth with two on to account for three of the only four runs the Senators were able to make against 21 for the visitors. In the second game of the series yesterday the Senators right fielder knocked two over the fence but even this wasn't enough to win the game the Millers topping the score 9 8

MOTHER VICTIM OF SPINAL MENINGITIS

Fear Epidemic at London; Prison Guard's Family Is Stricken

LONDON, April 18—With the mother of the family dead, and two other members suffering from cerebro spinal meningitis, county officials here quarantined the home of captain of the guards, C. L. Weimer, of the London Prison farm here, and today feared an epidemic.

Mrs. Sadie Weimer, 60, was stricken with the disease last Friday and died yesterday without regaining consciousness.

Two of the woman's children are ill with the same disease. They are Robert, 16, high school student, and Allen May, 10. The daughter was stricken Saturday and remained in a coma until Tuesday night when she responded to a serum treatment. Her condition is serious. The son was taken ill Tuesday but his condition so far is not regarded as serious.

The home of Weimer has been quarantined and all precautions are being taken against a possible spread of the disease in the city and county.

Though a diagnosis by physicians declared the sickness was cerebro spinal meningitis it is not known what caused three members of the family to be stricken at one time.

MOTHER SLAIN

Portsmouth Woman Victim of Quarrel Over Extract, Is Charge

PORTSMOUTH, April 18 — Mrs. Mary Ballard, 27, mother of three children, is dead here today and Mrs. Alma Petty, 25, is being held by police in connection with a shooting fray which resulted in the death of Mrs. Ballard yesterday.

The women fought, it was said, over ownership of a bottle of vanilla extract. Later, they met in the village and words were exchanged. Mrs. Petty drew a revolver and shot Mrs. Ballard five times, killing her instantly, it is charged.

ROB HITCH-HIKER

Autoists Pick Up Thumber, Then Take His $25

LANCASTER, April 18—The usual order of things was reversed near here yesterday afternoon, and today Harold Groves, 21, "hitch-hiker" was minus $25.

Groves, "thumbing" his way from Springfield to his home here, accepted a ride from two well dressed men. At the point of a gun, the men relieved Groves of $25. Usually it is the "hitch-hiker" who robs the motorist, but this time it was the motorist looting the "hitch hiker."

MAY DEDUCT STORM LOSSES FROM TAXES

Damage From "Other Acts of God" Included in Income Tax Ruling

WASHINGTON, April 18—Losses caused by storms and other "acts of God" may be deducted from income tax returns, the U. S. board of tax appeals ruled today, in a decision of far-reaching consequence.

Under this decision, the many millions of dollars damages caused in storm-stricken areas in Florida, and flood damage in the Mississippi valley and New England areas in the last few years, apparently may be deducted in reporting income for taxation purposes, for tax lawyers considered the case a test case.

The decision was rendered on an appeal brought by Mrs. Mary Cheney Davis, whose country estate at Greystone farm, Dover, Mass., was visited by a violent storm in 1921.

THIRD SHAKE-UP OF OFFICIALS STARTED

Charge Mayor of Town Failed To Enforce Liquor Laws

NEW COMERSTOWN, April 18—Another political shake-up in Tuscarawas county was started today when a petition, bearing 280 signatures, asking the removal of Marion Mercer from the office of mayor here on charges that he "failed to enforce the liquor laws" was filed in common pleas court here.

The petition asks the suspension of the mayor pending an investigation and then his final removal.

If the move is successful, Mercer will be the second mayor and the third high public official in Tuscarawas county cities to be removed from office in the past month.

Mayor Peter J. Groh, of Dover, was ousted from office by Governor Cooper two weeks ago.

Postmaster Arthur Cummings, of Uhrichsville, resigned "under pressure" when alleged shortages were found in his accounts.

Conscience and Temptation sometimes carry on a whispering campaign to win you over.

TWO HOMES BURNED, VILLAGE THREATENED

Damage from Fire at Castine Is Estimated at $10,000

GREENVILLE, April 18 — Fire, believed to have been caused by an overheated stove, and fanned by a brisk wind, razed two dwellings at Castine, near here, early today, and for a time threatened to wipe out a section of the Darke county village.

Loss was estimated at $10,000.

Fire departments from Arcanum and Eldorado were rushed here and succeeded in checking the blaze.

The flames destroyed the home of Raymond Powell, and he and his family were forced to flee to the street in night clothes.

An unoccupied house, owned by Albert McFadden also was burned to the ground.

The fire caused the greater part of the populace of the village to awaken, don clothes, and rush to the streets.

TO LET CONTRACTS IN NEAR FUTURE

Building To Be Located In Western Part of Marengo Village

MT. GILEAD, April 18—Word has been received here that the construction on the new Bennington township school building, which is to be built in the western part of Marengo, will start soon after the first of June. This new site has been chosen so that the building will be nearer the center of the township and it can be easily reached from all parts of the township.

Contracts for the construction of the building have not been awarded yet because of the disagreement over where the building should be erected. Now that this has been decided it is thought that this matter will be tended to immdiately.

Voters of the district provided for the new building at the last election when a levy was voted on to provide $50,000 for the construction of the new house.

No high school training has been offered the pupils of this district for several years because the old building was condemned by state fire inspectors and ordered vacated. School for the grade pupils has been conducted on the lower floor.

Four township school buildings now accommodating outlying communities of Bennington township may be abandoned when the new structure is finished it was announced.

Radio Calliope Dispute

DENNEY CLAIMS NO. 1

Watched With Interest

BY MAC L. ROY

WHAT honor in being "the first and only?" That's what radio [illegible] are asking as a result of the [illegible] private feud between one of the [illegible] broadcasting networks and Homer Denney, who plays the calliope on the Island Queen, an Ohio river boat, from which station WLW broadcasts on spring and summer nights.

Denney has played that calliope for more than a score of years, including the past two seasons when the earsplitting steam whistles have been put on the air by station WLW. This fact, he claims, gives him the right to annex for the Island Queen calliope the title of "first and only calliope on the air" in spite of the fact that a national network program every week claims that distinction.

Knows Calliope Secrets

Anything to be known about calliopes, Denney should know for he has worked for more than 25 years for the only company in America that manufactures and holds patents on the calliope. He has tuned every circus calliope that ever came to Cincinnati and he has trained many of the players of the instrument now traveling with circuses.

Denney points out that the network's "first and only calliope" admittedly "uses compressed air instead of steam."

"A real calliope is a collection of whistles played by steam," Denney says. "Instruments using compressed air to blow their whistles are usually called calliophones and can be used indoors.

WSAI WINS NIGHT PERMIT FIGHT

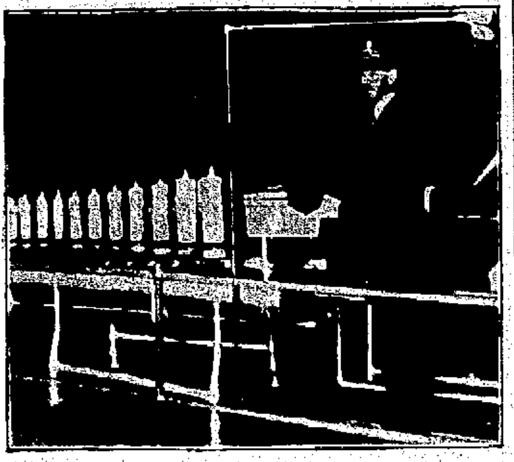
The station was assigned to the 1,330 kilocycle frequency with full time privileges until May 1. WEAF network programs will be relayed by the station.



Homer Denney, calliope player of the Ohio river boat, the Island Queen, from which WLW is broadcasting it third season, claims the WLW instrument is in reality "the first calliope on the air."

Bullish Traders Bid Up Prices of Speculative Favorites

Market Passes Through First Active Session of Week

POOLS ARE ACTIVE

Prospect of Lower Money Rate Helps Push Price Upward

BY W. S. COUSINS
I. N. S. Financial Editor

NEW YORK, April 18—Bulls in the stock market showed their courage this morning by bidding up the prices on the speculative favorites in all sections of the market. Prospect of an easier money market and the success of the pools in attracting new outside participation in the stock market were the outstanding factors in forcing prices higher at the beginning of the new session. No change was made in the Bank of England's rate and no change is expected here today in the reserve bank's rediscount rate, stock sales ran up to 620,000 shares in the first half hour, nearly double the total of the last three or four days.

The pools in Bethlehem Steel, American Can, Radio, Steel Foundries, etc., sounded the tocsin in advance of their activities in the market, and their movements were well advertised in the brokers' bulletins. Bethlehem was given a whirl in the first period to a new high at 111¼, up about three points in twice as many minutes.

United Aircraft carried its advance to 105, up 12 points from yesterday's low, American Can sailed along to 138½, a new high record, and new gains of a point or two were scored by the amusement and moving-picture stocks. American Railway Express jumped 12 points to 130 and Adams Express eight points to 708.

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meats, Grain, Livestock

A series of light frosts may affect the appearance of many vegetables and fruits on the Marion market this spring. Marion county produce has not yet been seriously affected, but continued frosts are almost certain to cause some damage.

Home-grown rhubarb is now down to five cents a bunch. This item has formerly been selling at two bunches for 15 cents, but dropped yesterday. Rhubarb was the first to make its appearance on the streets, peddled by farm lads of the county, who were on the sidewalks with a small wagon loaded with rhubarb, disposing of it by newsboy tactics.

Tomatoes are now selling at 20 cents a pound, as the result of a five-cent drop this morning. Local tomatoes will not appear in numbers until the more torrid months have arrived, but are now available from hothouses and greenhouses.

TODAY'S REVIEW OF YESTERDAY'S GRAIN

CHICAGO, April 18—A day of wide price swings in the wheat market marked readjustment after the drastic break in values Tuesday. Sharp early declines on further liquidation carried prices to within a fraction of the season's low, but short covering and reinstatement of lines on strength at Winnipeg, export demand and the firm corn market brought a substantial closing rally.

Wheat prices finished ⅜@⅞c higher. Corn was 1⅝@2c up; oats ½@1c higher; and rye ⅜@⅝c better. Winnipeg wheat futures closed ⅞@1⅛c higher.

Eastern houses led in the continuation of selling in the wheat market at the opening yesterday. After an early dip prices firmed with the strong corn market, but then went lower again. May sold within ⅛c of the season's low. Shortly after prices advanced steadily as shorts covered, and it was said some locals reinstated long holdings.

Export news was the principal reason for the tempering of bearish sentiment yesterday. First, reports of export business were responsible for much of the strength in corn. Then there were sales of 500,000 to 600,000 bu. of wheat, including Manitobas, durums and hard winters. Last but not least was the report that when prices got down to a level where export transactions could be effected they were promptly raised.

This situation, which also developed on the previous break, provided a highly effective off-set to Senator Capper's bearish view of the Kansas wheat position, the leading influence in the Tuesday break. Gulf premiums were reported raised ½@¾c. Exporters bought the futures at Winnipeg and that market's advance was what started the local upturn.

Traders on both sides of the market were puzzled by the open interest figures, which showed a negligible change from the previous day, despite the heavy liquidation.

Corn sold above the previous day's close throughout the session, and prices advanced readily when the wheat market rallied from the lows. Commission house trade continued light and shorts and locals were the principal buyers. Offerings were limited.

While export sales were reported, no figures on the amount were given. Chartering of vessel space for 200,000 bu to Georgian Bay again called attention to the heavy shipments being made to Canada. Local spot market was strong with the basis steady to 1c higher.

In the cash market wheat was unchanged to ½c lower; corn steady to 1c down; oats unchanged to ½c off; rye dull and barley unchanged.

Cars inspected: Wheat, 10; corn, 75, oats, 34; rye, 1; and barley, 7.

WITH THE STAR STAFF

Gay Decorations

FUNNY It was enough to make one reporter laugh out loud when she looked in the window Not a sly little chuckle that makes passersby think the chuckler is having a private joke Loud and long the laugh pealed forth on the late afternoon air.

In the side window of one of Marion's department stores was a display of men's pajamas

And prominently displayed in an outstanding manner is a pajama jacket trimmed in bands of pink But the horse laugh isn't so much at imagining a man sporting midst bands of pink trimmings as it is in imagining a man with a prominent bay window going to bed with the pink sash engirdling his middle with the large pink bow tied [illegible] and with much care

The pajamas which won the loud guffaw had two pink ties starting at each side and forming a beautiful bow in the exact center

Which would have looked the worse the bow in the back or in front It was bad enough when the men began wearing orchid silk trunks but when they begin wearing sashes to bed well—there's a limit to even a man's control of his laughter

* * *

Costume Jewelry

WHAT a temptation to the frivolous woman is jewelry and when displayed with the whole [illegible] loveliness of a local jeweler, it's almost irresistible

The price is so ridiculously low for the appearance of the display that it takes more than ordinary nerve to walk by without buying

Rings are shown with gorgeous big settings, something that almost every woman wants at some time in life a large stone dinner ring for either the first or little finger Entrancing necklaces with much carving of metal and display of colored glass, brooches with [illegible] that would crush a foot if they fell out of their settings earrings that are large enough to throw one's head to the side if only one were worn and to add inches to the lobe of the ear if both were displayed everything in colors to match or correspond

The jewelry is the much talked of advertised and beloved of women, costume jewelry Practically, it's of no more value than the sum that is asked for it, but the way a piece or two can set off the charm of a dress is valuable beyond price to a woman

Office Opposites

LOOK over the office at night before you go and laugh or cry Or ask the caretaker confidentially some time who is the neatest and who is the most untidy person in the office Believe me he knows If you don't

One man in an uptown office is terrible according to the janitor The man smokes a pipe, cigarets and sometimes a cigar Thank heavens he doesn't chew or it would be worse than never But the aforesaid offender knocks the ashes from his pipe to the floor flips cigaret ashes to and fro and with utter abandon and leaves cigar and cigaret stubs all over the floor around his desk instead of in the cuspidor provided by the company for such use

The cleanest person is a girl who dusts every morning with weighty routine who never leaves her stenographer's pad on the desk who abhors her neighboring coworker because she dusts about once a month and isn't beaten down with worrying over her lack of interest in desk dusting and who closes her typewriter every night with the precision of a religious rite

But believe it or not, the man who takes care of the office would rather clean up after the good humored genial man who isn't so careful about where the cigaret stubs land than just "go over" the too nicely taken care of desk of the snooty girl who is "just so" about every tiny lead pencil and scrap of paper

A genial personality wins more respect and affability even though the possessor may not be so tidy about the office than the goody goody girl who high hats the force and is so clean about her little 3x5 foot cubby hole that it makes the others around her tired to watch her work

THE CHARM HOUSE

LET'S HAVE A LOOK

You enter through a leaded plate glass door into the living room with its antiqued woodwork, buff tinted rough plaster walls, and oak floors. To your left is a cheery stone fireplace. On your right is a specially arranged nook for the radio. What an ideal place to slump down in an easy chair with a good book and enjoy a real evening

Through an arched opening is a well proportioned dining room. Through another arch into the center hall. Then into the black and white bath with its built in fixtures and Venetian cabinet. Then back to the hall and into the blue and green bed rooms with their ivory trim

The rose and cream kitchen is all that any wife could wish for. The French windowed breakfast nook with red tile floor is so cozy. From the kitchen you step right into a cement floored garage equipped with gas, water and electricity. Isn't it a marvelous bungalow? Just completed on Sheridan Rd. and reasonably priced too.
